The Executive Service Corps of New Hampshire (ESC) has announced the selection of John Gregg of Portsmouth as its Consultant of the Year for 2006. John was chosen for his outstanding contributions to ESC and its nonprofit clients. His clients include NAMI-NH, Arts Alliance of Northern New Hampshire, New Hampshire Center for Nonprofits and the Squam Lakes Natural Science Center. He has introduced Program Monitoring and Continuous Improvement to Northern New England nonprofits. John very much enjoys working with these clients and ESC. He is also an active volunteer with Portsmouth landmarks such as the Music Hall and the Warner House.

Within ESC, John has contributed to the capabilities of the organization by expanding its marketing research and surveying capabilities, advising the Executive Director on developing proposals, and training ESC consultants in applying marketing concepts to nonprofits. Executive Director Michael Daily said “I am impressed with his ability to reduce complicated concepts to action items that get results for ESC and for our clients.”

Commenting on the selection, Don Hughes, ESC Chairman, said “John has contributed to our practice in so many ways. I believe he has pushed the envelope by applying marketing research to smaller nonprofits in Northern New England.”

Executive Service Corps is a nonprofit organization that provides management consulting solutions to other nonprofits by using highly experienced volunteer consultants.
